SHOWN EMCEEING the Variety Show at Warren high school on March 18 are William Atkins and Wesley Maley. Talent for the show was school-wide.

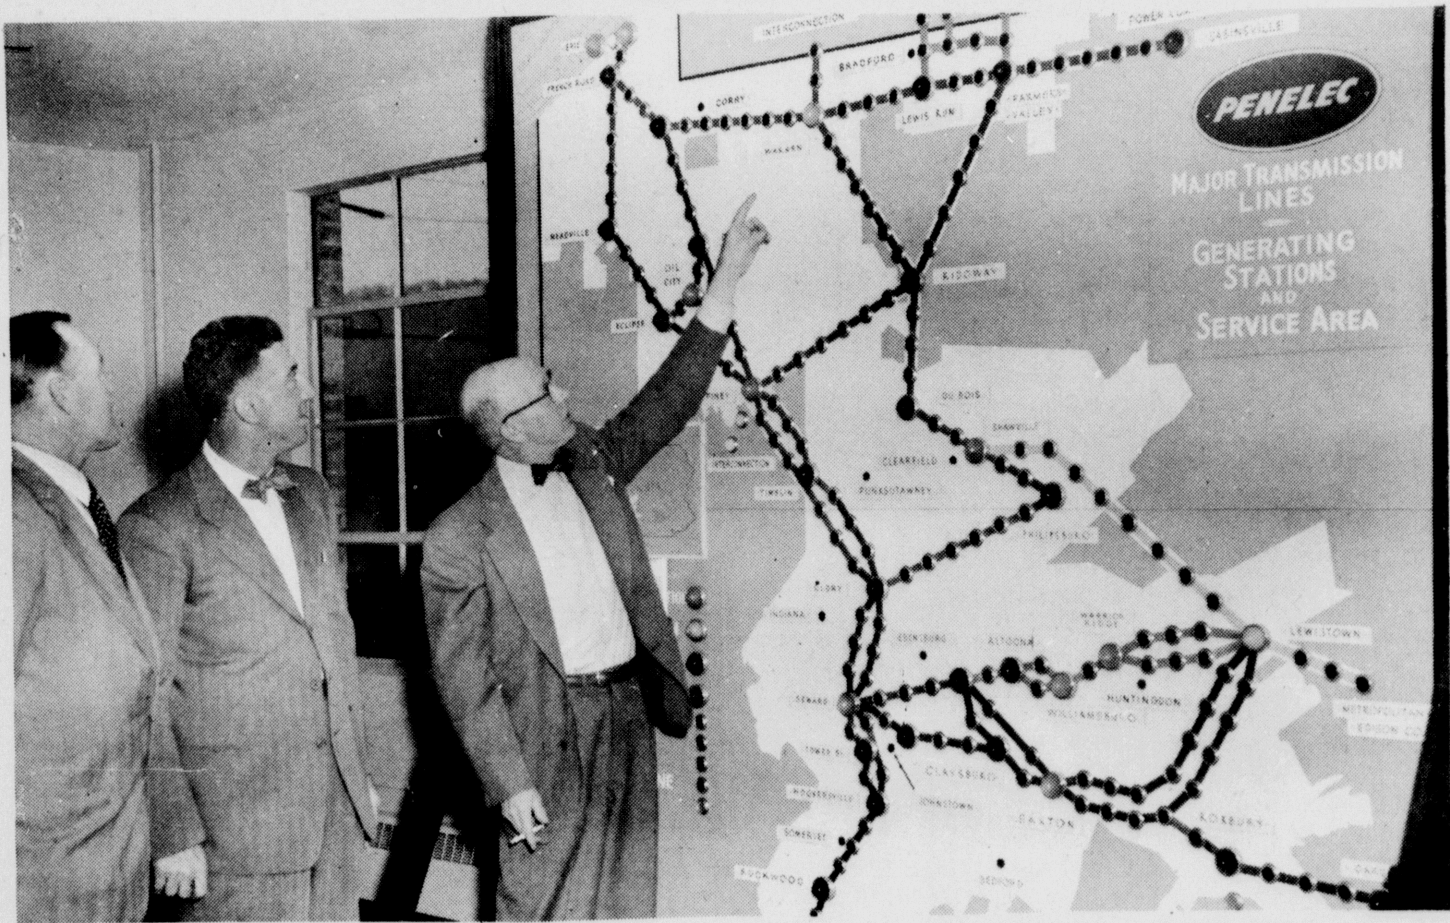

SEVENTEEN NEW MEMBERS were inducted into the National Honor Society at the Warren high school in an assembly on March 17. Service, leadership, and good character are the requisites for selection of the members in addition to the maintenance of a high scholastic standing in the class.

A TAP ON THE SHOULDER by a member of the honor society is the announcement to the individual that they have been selected to be a member of the society. Tension mounts as the students watch an honor society member meander up the aisle in quest of a selectee.

REDDY KILOWATT has a new residence in the Warren area. Penelec's Eddy st. property which has just been remodeled will house the office, engineering, line, sales, and garage departments. Looking at this vast network of major transmission lines serviced by Penelec in this section of the state are, left to right, Lyle Shafer, William Bevevino, and Robert Shiels, who is Warren District Manager.

HERE IS A VIEW of the new engineering department. An extra attraction for the interest of the public is a demonstration center consisting of a fully equipped electric kitchen and laundry as well as provisions for demonstrating electrical equipment used by stores, offices, and industries.

MUSIC FROM THE HILL, BILLY Judith and Linda Englehart are shown singing and playing the guitar for "I Forgot More" and "Ya'll Come" for the talent assembly.

A FLAG BATON DRILL was given by Majorette Beverly Johnson. Music for the drill was "New York Hippodrome".

A Few Complaints

I have some angry communications here, and since nothing delights me more than an infuriated letter writer I shall pass them along.

"Sir:

"Those yahoos who have been yammering at Marilyn Monroe because she can't spell 'The Brothers Karamazoff' should be keelhauled. Who can spell it? Or them? When Stanislavsky and the Moscow Art Theater performed a fragment of it here in 1923 it was programmed 'The Brothers Karamazoff' by Feodor Dostoevsky. This precedent didn't impress Lawrence Langner and the other Theater Guild swami when they grappled with another version four years later. The Guild mistook the Stanislavsky billing for an anagram, replaced it with 'The Brothers Karamazov' by Feodor Dostoevsky. Proof readers and orthographers have been playing fast and loose with both author and work ever since. If Stanislavsky and Langner can't see eye to eye in phonetics, what can you expect from the waif from Los Angeles?

"Who can spell those Moscow brooders? I'll tell you who can spell the whole kit and caboodle. Sheila Bond can spell them. What's more she can enumerate them: Dmitri, Ivan and Aliocha. Who's Sheila Bond? I'm glad you asked me. Otherwise I don't know how I could have wormed 'Lunatics and Lovers' into this chit. Miss Bond feels she and Miss Monroe have an affinity. Miss Monroe takes a bubble bath in 'Seven Year Itch,' Miss Bond takes one in 'Lunatics and Lovers.'

"What's all this to do with television? I'll tell you, chum. It was on TV that I heard Marilyn had been routed by the Karamazoffs. If you're the patriot I think you are, you'll see to it that she gets a half minute for rebuttal.

"Yours,

"Richard Maney

So much for that distinguished orthographer, Richard Maney.

- Fair assessments can be obtained without spending $140,000 for outside help.
- A standard system for the use of all assessors should be established

Another distressed letter comes from a distinguished and incurable horseplayer named John McNulty:

"Dear John:

"My dear friend Mrs. Foley of Danvers, Mass., is too much of a lady to pin your ears back so I'll have to be her Galahad III and speak up for her.

"...never set foot in a horse park before,' say you! Bosh! I'm the guy who accompanied this splendid little type of horseplayer to the Derby last year, and let me tell you Mrs. Foley is not only a devout horseplayer but is the first 67 cent horseplayer I ever met and she has been since 1928 or thereabouts. The 67 cents is what she and two lady chums each chip in to buy a $2 ticket on a horse and the extra cent goes toward programs.

"So seasoned and so consecrated a horseplayer is dear Mrs. Foley that your words doubtless cause her great chagrin. The poor lady, thus maligned in being placed in the loathesome category of non-horseplayers, may be ashamed to face her co-religionists in the paddock."

All this is in reference to an item about Mrs. Foley who won a racehorse by naming it. (The information that Mrs. Foley was a non-horseplayer came from a press agent and I apologize profusely to Mrs. Foley. Gads, what a scandalous thing to charge a 67-cent horseplayer with!)

In the same column I complained that in the current horse-naming contest, as proclaimed on the Steve Allen show, they had neglected to provide the names of the sire and dam. This provoked a missive from my fourteen-year-old niece Cricket Crosby. To wit:

MOTHER-DAUGHTER COMBINATION. The Methodist church of Sugar Grove recently purchased a new Hammond organ for its sanctuary. Mrs. Neil Scott and her daughter, Mary Ann, share the responsibilities of accompanying the congregation. Mrs. Scott has been pianist in this church for over twenty years. Mary Ann not only plays the instrument but has a voice which won her a place in the all-state chorus that performed at Minersville, Pa. last week.

Early Days In Youngsville Revealed By Atlas

As quoted from an Atlas of Warren County by J. A. Howden and A. Odert's -- Dated 1878 -- Now in the Pittsfield Public Library.

Youngsville is a town of about 600 inhabitants. It is situated in the Brokenstraw valley, and near the geographical center of Warren County. The town extends itself on both sides of the Big Brokenstraw creek, and presents a pleasant and attractive aspect, with its fine streets and tidy buildings.

These are two railroads passing through the corporate limits of the town -- the Philadelphia and Erie road, and the Dunkirk, Warren, Titusville and Pittsburgh road, each road having a freight and passenger depot conveniently located.

In addition to many beautiful and costly private residences, the town contains some eight or ten stores, a post office, two hotels, two shoe shops, one jeweler's shop, five steam mills -- two for the manufacturing of shingles, heading, and staves, one for manufacturing lumber, making pumps, and other wooden work.

There are also in the town one newspaper establishment, one church, one minister, two physicians, two blacksmith shops, one cabinet maker's shop, one wagon maker's shop, one Union schoolhouse, with excellent accommodations for two hundred pupils, with a commodious hall attached. The Youngsville cemetery is well kept, and contains many beautiful monuments, and other artificial embellishments.

The "Rouse House", a county home for the poor and indigent of Warren County, is located on a beautiful tract of land containing four hundred acres, just outside the borough limits. This building was erected in 1865, at a cost of $40,000. The cost of the building, together with an endowment fund of $175,000, were given as a dying bequest by Henry R. Rouse, a prominent and wealthy citizen of Warren County, who lost his life at Rouseville in 1861, the result of severe burns, caused by the premature explosion of gas at an oil well.

Youngsville was settled about the year 1800 by Matthew Young, a somewhat eccentric, unmarried Scotchman. It was incorporated as a borough on the 4th day of September, 1849.

Matthew Young erected a log cabin on the bank of the Brokenstraw creek about thirty rods below where the bridge now crosses that stream in Youngsville, and cleared a small space, perhaps an acre, and cultivated it, living in his cabin just sufficient to protect his little improvement, and to gather the products of his "patch". He was very little inclined to agricultural pursuits, and spent the greater portion of his time with the other settlers along the Brokenstraw. Finally, he settled down, making his permanent home with John McKinney, who lived about half way between Youngsville and Irvington.

On the 21st day of August, 1815, he laid his land warrant on four hundred acres of land, in such a manner as to include all the bottom land where the town of Youngsville now stands, and with as little of the hillside land as possible.

He had his land surveyed on the 2nd day of December, 1815, made proof of his settlement, and received his patent on the 19th of March, 1818, for four hundred and forty acres, and the usual allowance.

By this time he had sold off, in small parcels, nearly all of his land to various parties.

The original patent of Matthew Young is now, and has been for more than fifty years, in the possession of Mr. C. V. Kinnear, and was put on record by him in 1865. As before stated, Young was somewhat eccentric. We will relate one instance.

One summer he went to work and cut down close to the ground all the timber and underbrush for a space of two feet in width, and more than one mile in length, through the valley, leading northward from Youngsville. Much curiosity was excited in the minds of the few inhabitants to know why he spent so much time in "tunnelling the woods" as they termed it, but he never enlightened them in regard to the matter.

Although Warren County was organized in 1800, it was not fully organized for judicial purposes until 1819, in which year Matthew Young was appointed treasurer of the county, being the first to fill that office. He died on the 4th day of August, 1825, at the house of one Smith, who lived some distance down the Allegheny river. His remains were brought back to his home at McKinney's in a canoe, and interred in the burying ground at Youngsville, where they still remain.

In Brief

The Half-Way Mark has been reached in the annual Red Cross drive with the report from Mrs. William Rice that all divisions totaled $15,477.15 as of Wednesday morning. An emphasis was given the Warren County effort Tuesday when the local unit was alerted along with the Erie organization because of the high winds and threats of tornadoes. Lady Luck helped us escape this time but the disaster funds may be required as the result of future havoc of nature.

Reminders Of The 1955-56 school term were issued this week when educational authorities suggested that next year's new students should be vaccinated now. Presentation of a certification of vaccination against small-pox is required by the Pennsylvania School Code, Section 1303. By arranging with the physician to have the safeguard executed in the spring, parents will aid school officials in avoiding unnecessary confusion when school resumes in the autumn.

Each Year the Pennsylvania Electric Association sponsors a state-wide achievement contest with Future Farmer of America members, chapters, and teachers for the use of electricity in vocational agriculture programs. This year Youngsville took three honors. Robert L. Albright, Youngsville F.F.A. Chapter Adviser, submitted the best chapter entry in the state and will be awarded $25 by the electric company in June at the State Vocational Conference in Eagles Mere. The Youngsville Chapter of F.F.A. will also be awarded a plaque. Homer G. Perkins is the area winner in the individual chapter member program, receiving $5 from the Warren Electric Co-op.

Two Warren Students at Allegheny College, senior Ansel C. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Anderson, 11 Park st., North Warren; and junior Dawn O. Taft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Yalta News Release A Blooper

By Doris Fleeson

WASHINGTON. -- Publication of the Yalta transcript has upset the political balance at home, angered the British and damaged U. S. prestige abroad.

Nor is the end in sight. The political pressures within the Republican party which publication was designed to soothe have already begun to take new form. Members of the GOP right wing are now saying that they will study the transcript with the aim of finding ways to repudiate formally the Yalta agreements.

A new breath of life has also been infused into the Bricker amendment, opposed by President Eisenhower, which would restrict the President's powers to make international agreements. The amendment has been reintroduced and its supporters have only been waiting for a chance to press it.

The aim of the Republican right is to assert greater control generally by Congress over the conduct of U. S. foreign policy. Specifically the Knowland-Bridges leadership would like to repudiate Yalta because they feel it would strengthen the pro-Formosa foreign policy they are insisting upon.

This group correctly insists that repudiation of Yalta was a Republican campaign pledge. But when the President and Secretary of State Dulles sought to fulfill it, the outcries of U. S. allies and legal obstacles soon appeared.

They also discovered that Yalta—like all the very best propaganda—had been greatly exaggerated in the absence of a public record. So they dropped the proposal and locked up the transcript.

Why did Secretary Dulles open such a Pandora's box? The confidential State Department answer is that so much pressure accompanied by so much misinformation had built up that it was thought best to open the record and let the public judge. But the record seems to show little that is new and Churchill is complaining that it is "the American version, not history."

Meanwhile the Secretary of State has aroused the Democrats from whom he is asking bipartisan support. Their reactions range from deep suspicion to ridicule.

A sample comment came from Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, a member of the foreign relations committee. "Are they alibiing for a coming explosion in Formosa which they want to blame on Roosevelt?" he asked. "If their diplomacy were only half as successful as their publicity, the Soviet Union would be in full retreat."

Dulles' clumsy effort to "leak" the Yalta transcript in such a manner that it could be blamed on Democrats also irks the majority party in Congress, even though they evaded the trap. The State Department first announced it could not publish the story for security reasons but would send about 40 "confidential copies" to Congress. Democrats, rarely accused of being stupid politicians, saw through that promptly and refused to accept the copies.

This aspect of the story furnishes its only laughs, though it is somewhat specialized since it is a story of competition among the newspapers.

The New York Times got a copy of the Yalta transcript early this week. But after it had been happily photostated and returned to the sole custodian, the State Department, the Democrats on the Hill refused to take their copies. This left State as the sole scapegoat, a role Mr. Dulles might not mind at home but would find it hard to defend with our allies. While the matter hung fire, other newspapers got wind of the Times' coming exclusive.

Their pressures exerted through Senators Knowland and Bridges secured the sudden late Wednesday evening release to all. The other morning newspapers of course had only a few hours in which digest reams of copy for their early editions.

It is probable that this manner of releasing so important a story affecting our relations with our allies has not impressed other nations.

Official Washington is talking more than about the Yalta story which the Times account conceded contained little new. However, the Times dutifully printed 32 pages of it.

The comment of the Times office wit speedily circulated through the Capitol press galleries. "Our handling of this story reminds me of an old song," he said: "She said she wasn't hungry but look at what she ate."

BUYERS' CORNER

Pull Out The Props

What would radio and television do without beer and cigarettes? Apparently that is what Congressman Eugene Siler, of Kentucky, wants to find out. He has introduced a bill in the House to prohibit the transportation in interstate commerce of advertisements for alcoholic beverages.

This isn't a very new idea. It happens every year. The difference is that Congressman Siler has had the audacity to include television in the list of mediums which would be stopped from using such advertising.

But if you doubt you could get along without "best beer in town, creamy flavor, Mabel, the beer that made Milwaukee" and similar phrases adding to the erudition of your home, fear not. These heavy spenders not only can spend it for lobbies as well as ads, but they also have about fifty per cent of the people behind them. In fact, they have been known to claim that sixty per cent of the people drink.

We don't know whether or not that means these people can be counted on to oppose such a bill. Most people wash, but most people also would be happy if less were said about soap.

We have, too, but we've seen that peach shaved so often that we can't look a mirror in the face without wondering if we should shave that chin or peel it.

Of course the alcohol industry can count on some support from co-sufferers. Cigarette makers probably are wondering if alcohol ads are nipped, can nicotine be far behind?

It happens every year, and does not pass. But they keep trying and one of these days, on a wave of current resentment or moral uplift, such a bill might get through. The smart anti-vice groups like to be everyready.

Any time the nation wants to clamp down, there will be a law... ready, at least.

How Much Is Yours

Perched on our desk is a release which for several weeks has escaped our attention, but it may have a couple figures of interest to you. It is about Pennsylvania banks which claim through their association that their resources and deposits hit a new high in 1954.

These banks now have in deposits, $13,562,897, which is a half billion higher than 1953! A real leap! They are divided into about seven billion for national banks and six for the state banks.

The resources of these banks was set at a bit over fifteen billion dollars on the last day of the year. This also is about a half billion higher than the previous year. And this is divided, eight billion for national banks and seven for the state banks.

The state has 867 banks, of which 550 are national and 317 are state. With their money they made loans to individuals and businesses totaling a bit over five billion. And they invested almost six billion in government and municipal obligations.

Do you owe part of that five billion, or do you have a fair chunk of the deposits? Probably, if you are average, a bit of both. And all of us will have to pay off those municipal obligations.

Stepping Stones

A fascinating study is the history of any area, especially if that area is your own, and if your family has had much to do with its past. The Warren County Historical Society which for years did no more than exist, has been actively revived, thanks to the push of the Library Historical Group. Much work has been done and the Society now has an office in the court house. Many old documents have been obtained which tell much of the county's early life. Such a one is the John Daniels Ledger, dating back to 1795. In it are the accounts of early settlers as they did business with the Craig and O'Hara stores, which were located on the Conewango and the Brokenstraw creeks.

The purchases and the methods of payment tell much about the people involved, and reveal such facts as the visit and residence of John Chapman in Warren county. John Chapman is better known to most of us as Johnny Appleseed, and it is regrettable that this county, in which he actually farmed, has no marker or record to reveal where he resided. Most counties where he was active have such markers.

What started us on this ramble back into the past was a copy of the Historical Society's new publication, called Stepping Stones. It is to be published several times a year and is available to members as a part of their dues. Others can buy it at a price not determined.

However, if you are interested enough to subscribe, why not join the Society. It costs only $2 to join and a dollar a year thereafter.

You also are urged to help the Society in its efforts to obtain historical facts. Most old families have letters, documents, account books, photographs, maps, and other items that tell a story. They will not be harmed and personal affairs will not be divulged.

Either to join or to help you may write the Warren County Historical Society, Box 11, Warren. Or maybe you know some of the active members, such as Ervine E. Branch, Harold C. Putnam, Frank Miller, Frances Ramsey, E. C. Miller, Mrs. Robert Israel, Judge A. C. Fick, D. William Cashman, Fred A. Shaw, Georgia Spinney, and many others. In fact, there now are 222 members, and a fair treasury balance.

Opera Singers Announced

To put across that program of six front run operas at Chautauqua this summer will be a company of fine voices, most of whom have been named by Alfredo Valenti, director of the Chautauqua Opera Association.

Heidi Krall, of the Metropolitan Opera, will be the leading soprano. A new soprano will be Mary Judd. Mezzo-sopranos will be Lillian Marchetto and Pat Berlin, both of whom were members in 1954.

Engaged for her first season at Chautauqua will be Beatrice Krebs, contralto. Returning will be Patricia Bybell, Marjorie Gordon, Howard Jarratt, Grant Williams, and Howard Fried. A new tenor will be engaged to join those last three.

The brass-baritone section will have Hugh Thompson, John McCrae, Gil Gallagher, and Val Patacchi.

This 27th season of the Chautauqua Opera Association will open July 15 with Pinafore.

Televis Oscars

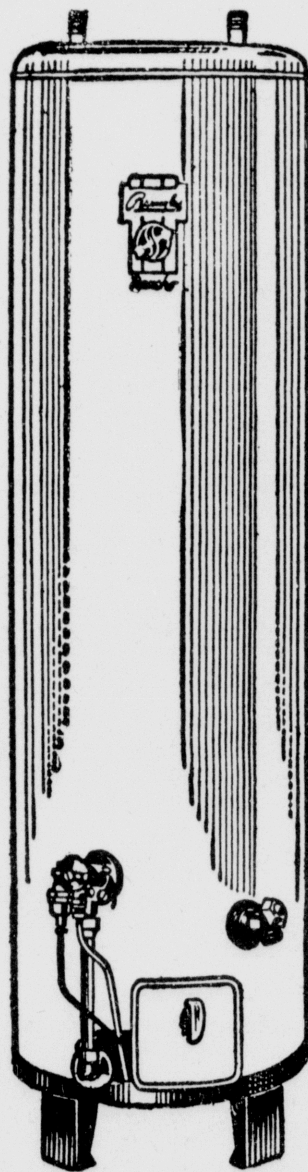

The presentation of Oscars again will be televised and the date is not far away, March 30, with Bob Hope as the MC. Area viewers can see it on WGR, channel 2, at 10:30. It will start over Johnstown at 11:05.

Weekly Ratings

If you like to keep an occasional tab on television and radio ratings, Jackie Gleason, Dragnet, Toast of the Town, I Love Lucy, and Groucho Marx are well grouped in that order for once a week shows.

Jack Benny, crowded by Amos 'n Andy, continues to fight it out for radio tops.

The top spot TV show is I Led Three Lives, with Liberace and Badge 714 about a million homes behind, but three million ahead of the next in line which is Ellery Queen.

SEVENTH BEST

The seventh best hunting for deer in Pennsylvania last year was to be found in Warren county. Hunters brought down and tagged officially 1404 antlered bucks. This figure was topped by Elk with 1982 Centre with 1847, Potter with 1696, McKean with 1655, Clearfield with 1541, and Lycoming with 1485. However, considering size and proximity to urban areas, we did very well.

When it comes to bear hunting the size doesn't mean much. Little Cameron county accounted for 46 bruins. The hunters got 39 in Clinton and 37 in Lycoming. Next was tiny Forest with 36. No other county was close. In Warren county the bear kill was 19.

A FEW LAW PROPOSALS

No metal tipped arrows could be sold to anyone under 16 if House Bill 536 were passed. House Bill 540 would make gas companies leave land in the same condition it was before they excavated, either to lay or dig up the lands.

Non-resident hunters would play second fiddle to Pennsylvanians if House Bill 566 were passed. It forbids them to hunt until a week of deer season is gone.

The destructive San Juan rabbit with which this area is not familiar but which some sections of Pennsylvania claim is worse than woodchucks and other animals when it comes to being a pest, would not be imported if House Bill 575 were approved. It forbids the importation of these rabbits until August 31, 1957, and not after that if studies by the Secretary of Agriculture says they are harmful.

WINTER WAS ROUGH ON SOME DEER

Early March reports from game protectors tell of winter-killed deer in certain northcentral Pennsylvania counties. Here is what some of the officers said:

Vern A. VanOrder, Elk County: "It has been several years since I have seen game conditions worse than this year. However, with the exception of one isolated area, Straight Creek, the game is in surprisingly good condition considering the severity of the winter hereabouts. In all parts of my district - even Straight Creek - all our turkey feeders were well located and well cared for by reliable sportsmen and deputies, if not by myself, the first half of the winter.

"However, the Straight Creek area became inaccessible by ordinary means about the middle of January. It then became necessary to carry in corn in a pack basket. The turkeys began to look bedraggled, and I found two dead deer in their beds. I had to kill two more that were so near death they were unable to get up."

William D. Neely, Potter County: "I am having a good deal of winter kill on deer at the present time, due to heavy snow and poor food conditions. The snow is mostly melted now, but it went too late for many of last years fawn deer."

Rozell A. Stidd, Potter County: "We lost a few deer by starvation during the severe winter. I know of at least half a dozen that died of this cause. We will probably lose quite a few more in the next month. A lot of them are beginning to show signs of severe malnutrition."

OFF-SEASON SHOOTERS FIND CROW SMART

An Adams County game protector, Paul H. Glenny, recently observed: "It is interesting to note that many sportsmen have learned the pleasure of gunning does not end with the open game seasons.

"In the past winter there was a decided increase in the number of persons who keep their shooting eyes sharp through the practice of crow hunting. The art of crow calling has been learned by numerous sportsmen hereabouts. Hunters have taken a heavy toll of the black rascals in past months through both the calling and roost shooting methods. It has become progressively more difficult to decoy these sly birds into shotgun range or to catch them at a roost at night -- proof of their adjustment to the pressure on them. Now the crows change their roosting place so often hunters must 'put them to bed' in order to know where they will be found on any particular night."

CLOSED SEASON FOR DOG TRAINING

Dog owners and trainers are cautioned that, except in defense of person or property, they may not lawfully permit dogs they own or control to chase or follow upon the track of any wild bird or animal between the 1st day of April and 31st day of July in Pennsylvania.

One exception is allowed by law when the Game Commission receives and approves a fox hunting petition signed by 250 or more residents of a county, persons who held a hunting license that previous year or who are farmers or sheep raisers, licensed to hunt or not. In such case foxes may be hunted in the county, day or night, throughout the year except for the 60-day period designated by the Commission. The closed period is April 1st to May 30th, inclusive.

TIME TO SET UP BIRD HOUSES

The coming of spring serves as a reminder it is time to erect nesting boxes for house wrens, bluebirds, purple martins and other birds soon to arrive.

Authorities on these feathered friends of man say a bird house in clean condition will often decide whether a bird will accept a man-made residence. A hinged or removable bottom makes cleaning of the boxes quick and simple.

Three things that will help birds decide to stay, or insure their safety, are: a bird bath, food-bearing trees and shrubs nearby and the absence or close control of neighborhood cats.

The Game Commission has both free and paid publications on Pennsylvania song birds, how to attract them and ways to build homes suitable to their needs.

Income Tax Reduction Effort Will Continue

By Thomas L. Stokes

WASHINGTON. -- You have not heard the last of the Democratic effort to get a break in tax reduction for the little fellow.

Nor, indeed, has President Eisenhower, or Secretary of Treasury Humphrey, or Republican leaders in Congress, despite their success in defeating in the Senate the compromise $20-10 family tax cut and, at the same time, keeping in the law the dividend credit and more liberal depreciation allowances for business that Democrats sought to repeal.

Currently, as you know, the tax issue is before a joint House-Senate conference committee. That has before it the bill as passed by the House which extends for another year beyond April 1 existing excise and corporation rates and includes the $20 tax cut for every member of the family attached by the House, and the Senate bill that merely extends the corporation and excise tax rates.

If by some miracle -- and it would be that -- the conference committee should accept the $20 tax cut bonus and both House and Senate should then approve it, you would hear about it constantly from Democrats from now until the 1956 election.

Such a miracle, frankly, is expected by nobody.

But there is another means open to Democrats to dramatize the tax issue. The opportunity will come in legislation now being considered by the House Ways and Means Committee to correct what Democrats call "the Humphrey blooper" that was included in revision of the tax law by the last Congress, the Republican 83rd. Accepting recommendations last year by the Treasury department, Congress wrote into the 1953 law a provision permitting businessmen to take deductions for two years' expenses in one year. It will result in a windfall variously estimated to cause a loss in revenue up to a billion dollars and beyond.

Secretary Humphrey has asked for repeal of this provision, as well as correction of 39 other errors discovered recently in the 1953 law entailing revenue losses about which he is advising the committee soon.

When this "blooper" bill comes before the Senate it is the plan of Democrats, it is learned, to offer to it as amendments the same amendments they proposed in vain to the excise-corporation tax extension measure. Namely, the $20-10 tax cut for the family of moderate means and repeal of the dividend credit and of the more liberal depreciation allowances which Republicans included in the 1953 revenue law. The dividend and depreciation repealers were offered as a means of bringing in sufficient revenue to offset revenue lost through the $20-10 cut.

Thus Democrats will force Republicans to go on record publicly once again on refusing tax relief to persons of moderate means. This will carry its own contrast with what Republicans did in last year's law for the affluent and for business by focusing attention on the dividend credit which Democrats criticize as a boon for "coupon clippers" and the more liberal depreciation allowances which mean substantial tax savings for big business and industry.

Democrats believe they have raised an issue that will become better and better as it is noised about by repetition. They dismiss the theory advanced by some Republicans that the fight for tax reduction for persons of small income will not mean much politically.

Democrats are relying upon Secretary Humphrey as a witness on their behalf because of circumstances that are part of the official record.

When he appeared before the Senate Finance Committee to oppose the $20 cut for every member of the family that had been passed by the House, he was asked if he would approve tax reduction if the Senate should provide revenue to offset the loss of revenue to the Treasury. He replied that under such conditions, tax reduction would be all right. Taking him at his word, Democrats offered on the floor their amendment to make up the revenue loss from the $20-10 compromise by repealing the dividend credit and depreciation provisions put into the law last year.

But, when the Secretary was before House Ways and Means a few days later to urge repeal of the "blooper," he hotly denounced the Senate Democratic proposal as "silly," "irresponsible" and "political." He plainly had not thought the Democrats would pick out the dividend and depreciation features for compensating revenue producers. He said flatly that they were responsible for business recovery and for creating jobs.

School Problems

School problems in Warren county are twenty-eight fold, not counting Warren borough, which has a couple of its own. But there are twenty-eight school districts outside of Warren and they have one common worry, with very few exceptions. That worry is money.

We have done some writing here about taxes and assessed valuations. If you want to see the effect that assessed valuations have on taxes, take a look at the school districts. It is graphically revealed.

As you have read here many times, the assessors have been told to establish assessed valuations at forty per cent of actual values. The state has given county commissioners orders to do this job. It can be as high as seventy-five.

Such a step provides several advantages. Inasmuch as the real estate tax is the only major one left exclusively to local governments for their use, and inasmuch as no fairer one has been provided these local officials, there is no reason why school boards, supervisors, and councils should find it a hardship when they want to obtain money, either by taxation or through the issuance of bonds. Adequate assessed valuations make both of these much easier.

The increase in the valuations does not mean that you necessarily will pay more taxes. You might pay less. But if the assessments are fair, each will pay his share. There will be equity.

Because real estate assessments are not adequate, governing bodies have been scrambling for a variety of means to raise money. Most of them make much use of the very unfair per capita tax. No matter what your income, in the case of the per capita tax you pay a specified amount for every member of your family over twenty-one. The wealthy gentleman down the road, perhaps with no family, or a much smaller one, pays much less.

Pennsylvania school districts have been forced to make much use of the per capita. In fact, 1129 of them use it to raise a little over eight million dollars. The next special tax most widely used is the earned income tax, which 210 districts are using for a total take of about seven and a third million dollars. Then comes the deed transfer tax, used by 188, which accounts for close to three million. The tax on admissions to amusements and athletic events, which can go as high as ten per cent, is used by 166 districts and brings in close to a million.

County Schools Pinched

Warren county schools are in the pinchers. Though the districts outside of Warren have 5,803 pupils, the assessed valuations on which taxes can be levied total only $14,445,937.

Warren, with its high valued residential areas, and its industry, has an assessed valuation of about fifteen million and has only 2,731 pupils. Less than half as many pupils, and a higher assessed valuation.

However, the fact is that the actual value of property outside of Warren borough is higher than that in the borough. But the assessors in many districts have failed to bring the valuation up to even the minimum. The result is that many districts have very high millage and still could use more revenue.

For example, the millage in Sugar Grove borough is 40. Its assessed valuation is only 29.9 per cent of the market value.

Glade twp. has a millage of only 20, because its assessed valuation is 48.8 per cent. There are many such contrasting examples.

Obviously the district with the large assessed valuation percentage has much more flexibility, because there is a limit on the amount of millage that can be assessed. For general uses the limit is 25 mills. Another 10 mills can be added to assure minimum salaries. And if an authority is used to provide facilities, another 10 mills is available for payments. In fact, if a district still gets in trouble and can't meet payments, permission of the state may be obtained to go as high as another fifteen mills!

The real estate tax gives the county school district real range if assessments are correctly done. And where the most is made of the value allowed, the lower is the millage.

Here are a few examples in our own county. Clarendon borough has set its valuation at about 43.4 per cent and has a millage of 15, plus $10 in per capita taxes.

Columbus twp. has an assessed valuation of 30.9 per cent of the market value, and has a millage of 35, plus a per capita of $7. Farmington and Freehold twps. both have set their valuations at about 40 per cent, both have a millage of 35 and per capita taxes of $10.

Sheffield has a market value of $3,948,400, has assessed itself at $1,405,068, or 35.6 per cent, and has a millage of 29, with $10 per capita.

Youngsville has a market value of $3,081,300, with assessed valuation of $1,304,575, which is 42.3 per cent. It has a millage of 20 and $10 per capita tax.

Tidioute boro has a market value of $1,038,800, assessed at $427,965 (41.2 per cent), and pays a millage of 18, with a per capita of $5 which we understand has been removed.

In fact many of these may be adjusted or changed a bit at this point. These are 1954 tax levies, established on a 1953 value which was certified to the state on June 30, 1954.

The Big Variable

These figures can be tossed in the barrel, however, unless you have more facts. The major difference between areas often is the pupil population. A wealthy area may have a small percentage of pupils. And we find the other extreme.

In Warren county we have Corydon twp. which has a market value of $17,456 for each of its 32 young people. Watson twp. has a market value of $18,150 for each of its 22. These are small townships and are extremes, but they drive home the point.

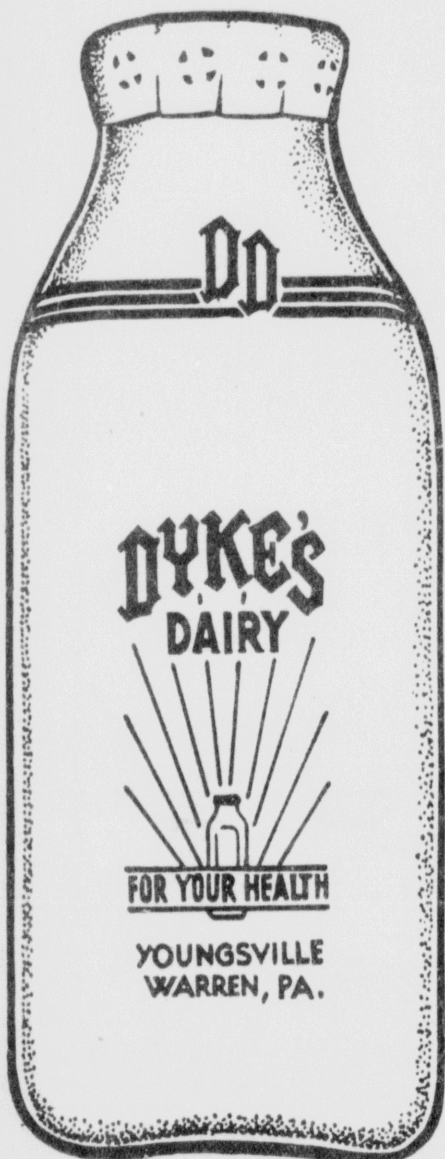

At the other end of the ledger we find Freehold twp. with 206 pupils and a market value on its property of only $3,684 per pupil.

Looking at some of the communities we find Youngsville with a market value of $7,442 per pupil, Sheffield with $7,622 per pupil, Tidioute with $5,662. The average is $6,818.

If you are confused, how about your school director? But given fair assessments, an appreciation of the value of education, the courage to lead, and enlightened constituents to support his progressive actions, the school director can find the financial answer within the framework of our present tax laws. Assuming, of course, that the state will continue to help.

And obviously, what we really could use is a nice annual slice of that national tax bill we help pay. We could use it for the purpose of bringing our schools up to date and putting us so far ahead of the world educationally that victory on the mental and scientific side of the battle would be ours.

It Must Be The Ads we give away in this paper for the purpose of selling United States Savings Bonds. Warren county again showed a big monthly increase during February over the 1954 month by that name. In February, Warren county was credited with the sale of $168,750 worth of bonds. A year ago the month drew only $78,287.

SPRING'S HERE when the hill-sides of the Lester Black farm, between Youngsville and Chandlers Valley, become dotted with little lambs as they are now. Here in the picture, members of the Black family exhibit the most recent additions to the flock, (left to right) Nancy, Rose, Patrick, Mrs. Mary Black, and daughter Mary (who probably wouldn't mind if she were followed to school).

At the present time, twenty-six lambs have been added to the family this year. Mrs. Black points out that lambs will not eat from a bottle unless trained from shortly after birth and will, if older, often starve rather than accept the artificial feeding. The Black's reside approximately two miles from the Youngsville borough line, and welcome visitors.

RATTLE PINS. Fran McCallister spilled a 220 game and a total of 596 to place fourth in the singles event of the Warren Women's Bowling association handicap tournament. It was held at the Penn alleys in Warren.

GONE ARE THE DAYS when the maple trees which graced this hill meant syrup for the pancakes of Warren County homes. During the past winter the owners have nearly stripped the property of the sweet-juiced hardwoods and left the boiling shed forlorn and desolate in the midst of the stumps which are the only reminders of the more productive years.

The scene is observed from the Chandlers Valley-Sugar Grove road on the old Norbeck farm.

IT'S A LONG PROCESS to convert this tub full of maple sap into gallons of syrup and takes cords and cords of wood. This one-family operation at the farm of Bert Graham, near Youngsville, will provide in the old fashioned manner enough hot cake dressing for the next year. A survey has indicated that a tree may produce up to seven quarts of sap during the flowing hours of one day but the average is closer to five. It takes approximately fifty gallons of sap to produce one gallon of syrup of average consistency. The youngsters who gathered all the wood and continuously empty the buckets at the trees must look forward to the finished product every time they lick off index fingers "accidentally" slipped into the sweet liquid. Early spring with cold nights and warm days creates just the right conditions to keep the sap moving up and down the trunks as it feeds the budding new life in the branches. Certain drops slip into the waiting buckets to cheer the breakfast tables in many homes.

POLITICAL HOPEFULS crowded the Warren County Commissioners' office on Tuesday at high noon to draw for locations on the May 17 primary ballot. Lined up ready to draw numbers from the "pill box" are Republican Commissioner candidates (left to right) Blain Mead, John Carbon, Clarence Akeley, Homer Bowersox, and L. L. Johnson who drew numbers two, seven, six, three, and one, respectively. E. W. Hultberg, and Elmer Peterson were absent and proxies picked numbers four and five. In the bottom picture are Democratic candidates for County Commissioner (left to right) Ervine N. Branch, Lewis L. Crippen, and William H. Olney who drew second, first, and third places, respectively.

REGISTER AND RECORDER candidates for the Republican nomination (left to right) Allan H. Branch, Robert E. Geiger, and Gurney R. Ball selected second, first, and third, respectively.

In the Republican race for Sheriff, Sanford Secor has first place on the ballot and L. E. Linder, second. In the Republican Treasurer's contest the line-up is W. R. Simonsen, Robert L. Ritchie, and J. B. Hofer. For the Republican Jury Commissioner nomination, Wilma J. Toner will be first and Nell M. Eggleston, second.

Area Sports

All-Star Team

The air, the papers, and the woods seem to be filled with various choices of all-star high school basketball teams right now. It always has seemed to us that the choice of so-called all-stars represented too much emphasis on exactly what does not make a team—the individual.

We believe boys must learn to take both praise and criticism as a part of their sports life, but such things as the all-county, all-district, and other "alls" give them a target other than team success at which to shoot.

So our choice for the all-stars of Warren county is the team which proved that team play can pay off. We name Sheffield high school the all-star team.

The Wolverine boys and their coach had no more with which to start than any other high school team in the area. All were complaining about green and untried squads. Sheffield took a group of juniors and went through two play-off games and into a third before being knocked off. Even then, many felt the Wolverines were as good as the team which beat them.

Sheffield also knocked off everything it played in Warren county, including Warren, with which it split. And Sheffield outplayed Warren on Beaty court, losing only because it couldn't find the range in the first quarter.

So our choice for all-star honors — Sheffield. And bad news to opponents... All of Sheffield will be back along with some hustling reserves.

Track Schedule

The cool breezes are not stalling the thin clads of the area as they daily work out for that track season which is about to spring. Warren will open at Corry against the Beavers and Youngsville, on April 19, if the Corry field is ready. If not they will do it at Warren. Then the Dragons go to Titusville on April 22.

The rest of the schedule: April 26, at Oil City; April 29, Smethport at Warren; May 3, at Jamestown; May 6, open; May 11, Section 2 at Meadville; May 13, Jamestown at Warren; May 17, at Meadville; May 21, District 10, at Meadville; May 24, open, and May 28, at Pennsylvania State College.

All of these dates, like all track seasons, are subject to the whims of the weather.

Hot Stove Prepares

John Carbon was elected president of the Warren Hot Stove baseball league at Tuesday's meeting and immediately named Ward chiefs to prepare for the coming season. He also named a group to plan and obtain equipment and supplies.

Other officers are Roger Hendrickson, vice president; Robert Oehlenschlager, secretary; Red Whitton, treasurer, and Irv Poust, financial secretary.

All wards were represented at the meeting, except the Ninth, and the early interest suggests that the boys may have a big season. The next meeting will be held in the Trinity Memorial church, April 5.

and support will be greatly appreciated.

For Register and Recorder

Robert E. Geiger

I wish to announce my hope of representing the Republicans of Warren county as their candidate for the office of Warren County Commissioner, subject to their decision at the May 17, 1955, primary election. I will very much appreciate your assistance during the campaign and your vote on election day.

John A. Carbon

Only One Team

Warren will have only one independent baseball team this summer. The effort to form a strong team, using talent from the entire county, has flopped. The team, known as the Monarchs, has withdrawn from the Penn-York league and those back of it urge the boys to try out for the Elks team so that Warren can be well represented in league and area play.

Quick Ones

Country Club Golfers already are at it on a course that dries out far ahead of most. But the official day for the men probably will be about May 15. For the ladies it will be May 11.

Follow The Pros is the song of many who would change the basketball rules. To keep the tall boys away from the tip-in area, the foul lane would be widened to twelve feet. To speed up play the offense might be limited to thirty seconds with the ball. However, a check revealed that this would have little effect upon at least one college team. It used an average of eight seconds with the ball.

Louise Culbertson outsplashed the best in the Pittsburgh district last week. The Warren girl, on her own and with no coach to pat her wrist, ran away with the 100 yard free style.

Banquet Time for bowlers is getting here. The Warren Women's Bowling association will banquet May 5 at the Outing Club, and the Women's City and Major leagues will dine in the Hotel Carver, May 12.

Good Golf earned Toby Lyons $240 in the St. Petersburg Open last week. Toby was five under par with 283, but some of the touring pros were a mite better. Cary Middlecoff took it with 274. Jay Hebert, formerly pro at Erie's Kahkwa, and seen in Jamestown for several exhibitions, was second with 276. Toby was thirteenth.

WITH THE BOWLERS

The keggers are moving into their last month of activity, with tournaments on all sides, locally and otherwise. The leagues will start winding up early in April, depending on how early they started in September and how many nights were missed because of holidays.

Nationally the sport grows. The number of leagues now tops the 40,000 mark by 71, a new record. To this will be added new leagues which form in the spring for summer action. The ABC membership reached 368,636 teams with the season two-thirds gone. This also will increase and may top the 375,377 final figure of last season.

Don't get discouraged. Billy Sixty, after playing a prominent part in the game for forty-one years finally got his first league 300, March 1.

No reports from the men's city tournament. Are they really having one? Cooperation is a word very unfamiliar in some quarters.

Off to other alleys go the tournament bowlers while local tournaments go awasting. Biggest waste of cash on the part of many are the so-called 185 and under tournaments. We note the winner last year of one of these tournaments was a young fellow who not long ago was putting on exhibitions for bowling alleys. He was one of the area's big attractions for the open tournaments. And now the low average bowler is paying fancy prices to try to beat him.

The Winners

The ladies know how. That is the impression we get every time we watch the Warren Women's Bowling Association run its annual tournament. Last week end at the Penn they efficiently rolled off shift after shift, scorekeepers, standing tenders, and all it takes to run such a show keeping the competition in smooth order.

On top of the heap was the Anne's Beauty Salon team with 2860. Angoves came second with 2712. Marguerites had 2681. Berts finished Pacing the entire field with all-events honors was Jaye Pappalardo who posted 1788. Rose Driscoll was second with 1752.

Jaye teamed with Betty Foley to take the doubles with 1151. Then came Mae Weber and Joan Shedd, 1121; Mary Check and Bertha Knupp, 1099; Sis Highhouse and Betty Gray, 1096, tied with Cleora Shine and Delia Fitzgerald. They paid down twenty places.

Rose Driscoll led the singles with 643, followed by Rosemary Sample, 628; Betty Nichols, 605; Fran McAllister, 596, and Clara White, 585. The singles paid on down twenty-eight places.

TWININSULATION

For the first time, a rock wool blanket with reflective foil/aluminum on all four sides. Provides twin insulating action:

- 1 Trapped air-cells in the fire-safe rock wool, bar heat movement.
- 2 Reflective blanket surface, when facing minimum 3/4" air space, turns back radiated heat.

An ideal insulating combination against loss of furnace heat in winter and against penetration of attic heat in summer.

Resilient spun rock wool, sealed to both sides of blanket covering won't sag or settle. Makes a stiffer, easier-to-install blanket. Stop in; examine samples; see how easy it is to put it in your attic. Give us your attic dimensions and we can tell you how little it costs to enjoy the comfort and fuel-savings of Gold Bond Twinsulation!
